

Extending help during challenging times

WorkLifeMatters with Small Business COVID-19 Action Center now available to all Guardian small business customers

Because small businesses are especially impacted by the coronavirus, we're committed to providing the support you need to help manage the challenges of this unprecedented time.

Guardian is introducing a Small Business COVID-19 Action Center, with resources you can use to navigate your way, and help you understand and translate recent legislation.

In addition, effective immediately, we are extending our WorkLifeMatters Employee Assistance Program to all our Guardian small business customers (with 500 employees or less) at no cost through July 31, 2020.

Personalized, confidential support and guidance

You and your employees will have direct access to dedicated behavioral health, financial, and legal specialists for individual support, including:

- Financial and legal guidance on a variety of topics related to COVID-19, such as the CARES Act
- Professional counseling for your employees to support emotional well-being

The COVID-19 Action Center

Our dynamic, new online resource is continually updated with relevant webinars, videos, and educational content for small businesses and employees. Topics include:

- COVID-19 pandemic preparedness
- Small business debt relief
- Regulatory updates, such as the Families First Coronavirus Response Act (FFCRA)

- Guidance on handling difficult work situations
- Tips for working remotely and managing a remote workforce
